WELCOME from the Publisher

Many times over the past decade we've heard Lansdale described as a community that likes to gather (and party!). In fact, it was recently reported in the Montgomery County 2040 plan that people choose to move and migrate to Lansdale because of all the events hosted here. Discover Lansdale is proud to be counted among one of the organizations that have contributed to putting our town on the map as a great place to eat, play and live.

Since our mission is to connect people, business, and fun, we like to dedicate this Spring issue each year to doing just that. We try to make sure our readers have plenty of advance notice to coordinate calendars so none of the excitement is missed! Whether you are anxious to peruse town during First Fridays, catch the fireworks on Founders Day, sample brews at the annual Beer Fest, drool over classic cars or miles of motorcycles, you will want to keep this magazine handy and thumb through it regularly.

While we have an impressive roundup of events that consistently draw people into Lansdale each year, it is worth noting that plans are already underway for perhaps a year of celebratory events to end all celebratory events: our town's sesquicentennial! That's right, in 2022 Lansdale will turn 150 and party plans are in progress. We're looking to bring back some of the town's once-popular festivities such as the Strawberry Festival and the Day in the Park, as well as creating some new soirees such as a possible Dinner En Blanc type event.

Celebrating this birthday of the Borough will require A LOT of hands. So if you have an interest in helping, join us at one of the public meetings we will be hosting or reach out to us via email either at Lansdale150@lansdale.org or info@discoverlansdale.org We'd love to have you involved!

Let's get ready to party,
Mary Fuller

History in Motion

How Baseball and Patriotism Built Memorial Park

The original ballfield at today's Memorial Park was not much more than a glorified weed patch with a rag-tag wooden grandstand, as seen in this rare but grainy photograph from around 1920, just before the first improvements. (Photos courtesy of the Lansdale Historical Society)

By DICK
SHEARER

President,
Lansdale
Historical Society

Lansdale has always been a gathering spot for special events year-round. People would travel great distances to attend parades, festivals, sporting events, fraternal society socials, church picnics, revival meetings and shooting contests, or just to enjoy a refreshing afternoon listening to the Lansdale Band play at Edgewood Park.

The train and trolley made all of this possible. Out-of-towners could get here easily from all four directions, even in the eras before every garage housed an automobile.

But what did Lansdale residents themselves really like? Back a hundred years ago, in 1920, the town was head-over-heels crazy about baseball. People couldn't get enough of it. As early as January – long before the last snowflake fell – stories about local teams were finding their way onto the front pages of The Reporter and the Republican and Review.

It was traditionally “Hot Stove Season,” so named because men around the country gathered around pot-bellied stoves with refreshments in hand to debate what would happen once their favorite teams finally hit the diamond.

We picked 1920 not because it was a century ago, but rather because baseball talk that year indirectly led to the development of Memorial Park and, in the process, improvement of the town’s weed-infested ball diamond.

In the cold, snowy days of January 1920, talk spread around Lansdale that it might gain admission to the Montgomery County Baseball League if it promised satisfactory playing conditions. Our borough had numerous teams before – dating back into the 1800s – but the Montco League was a step up. It was classified as semi-pro, allowing for both paid and amateur players.

Joining the league involved money and community support. There was the field to fix, uniforms to buy, equipment to purchase and, of course, funds to pay those “pros.” The town was all for it. So was the newly-formed William E. Hare American Legion Post, as well as hundreds of former servicemen returning from World War I. Lansdale’s merchants chipped in and so did the industrial plants.

By early February, Lansdale was voted into the league unanimously, joining Ambler, Doylestown, Souderton, Fort Washington and Chestnut Hill. Abe Jackson was appointed manager by an oversight committee. He promised to give local players first shot at making the team before going outside to find the pros. Committees were established to handle the administration and finances of the team and excitement grew throughout Lansdale as winter grudgingly yielded to spring.

DiscoverLansdale.org

At the same time, controversy was brewing on another front. Borough citizens had been looking for a way to appropriately honor those who served, and in some cases died, in World War I. A great push had been under way to build a Memorial Hall on West Main Street. It would be a combination of a veterans post and community center with indoor recreational facilities.

Lansdale's community teams date back to the 1870s, including this 1899 crew managed by Billy Diehl (in derby hat).

Plans for this building were drawn up by Lansdale architect Milton Bean, and a spirited fund-raising drive was launched. Everything seemed to be on track, until the issue of who would oversee the building was raised. The borough, which also held a financial stake, wanted to be in charge; so did the American Legion post. The impasse stopped the project dead in its tracks.

Cooler minds interceded. Why not combine the baseball park fund-raiser with the drive to honor the vets, not with a building but a memorial park that would include a large area for honoring the war heroes and an expanded recreation area that the entire community could enjoy?

The compromise was quickly embraced. In fact, all but a few of the residents who donated funds for the Memorial Building agreed to shift their contributions to this expanded project. And while it eventually took 15 years to develop Memorial Park and its ballfield to an approximation of what it is now, the wheels were set in motion during those cold days of 1920.

We'd like to have a Cinderella ending to this tale, but we don't. Even though the Doughboys, as the team was called, attracted their fair share of "pro" players, the team came in just two wins over .500. The Doughboys finished the season strong, compiling a 10-8 record in their Montgomery County League debut, trailing champion Souderton (15-4), Doylestown (14-6) and Ambler (13-6).

But the good news is the team ended the season only $100 in the red, a loss that was quickly covered. And as history tells us, it launched a much bigger undertaking for Lansdale that we enjoy to this day.

Clear Your Calendar for Lansdale's Must-Do List

By BRUCE
SCHWARTZ

Editor,
Discover
Lansdale
Magazine

Each year we express a similar sentiment in our annual Events Guide. And each year, it becomes even more appropriate: Nearly every weekend, first flowers through first flakes, offers a fresh reason to visit and enjoy Lansdale. The calendar is packed with energy and jammed with events.

Start with the spectacular International Spring Festival in April; come back each First Friday of the month (twice in October!) for a different theme downtown; sample the suds at the Beer Tasting Festival; gawk at the gleaming metal at Cars Under the Lights and Bike Night; gaze at the bombs bursting in air at the fireworks finale of Founders Day; tool through our Happy Days at Cruise Night; oom-pah with pals at Oktoberfest; and line Main Street for the marching Mardi Gras in November.

Here's your annual save-the-dates guide. As always, we remind you that it's early in events season, and changes can and do occur. We encourage you to check back often with the events' organizers, and follow Discover Lansdale's Facebook page and website (www.discoverlansdale.org) for the latest updates. And we'll add new events as we become aware. So if your organization is planning something that's not on our radar, shoot us a note at info@discoverlansdale.org or use the online contact form.

HIGHLIGHT

LANSDALE BEER TASTING FESTIVAL

When: Saturday, June 27, VIP: Noon-4:30 pm; General Admission: 1:30-4:30 pm

Where: 206 W. Fifth St. (Cannoneers Field)

– Eleven years ago, a small group of Lansdale friends with a love for beer and a desire to do good got together to start a fest to raise funds for local causes. Separately, eight years ago, a group of North Penn High grads whose lives had been touched by tragedy formed a foundation to help others through troubled times.

This year, their paths entwine.

The Lansdale Area Fundraising Society (LAFS), which grew the Lansdale Beer Tasting Festival into one of the largest regional fests while donating hundreds of thousands of dollars, is handing off the ball (growler?) to Knights 4 Life, a foundation dedicated to supporting local individuals and families facing issues related to declining health or experiencing profound loss.

“Like-minded organizations, friends with mutual friends, Knights 4 Life were stalwart supporters and volunteers” at the beer fest over the years, as well as a funding recipient, says Laura Smith, vice president of K4L. “It was natural, when LAFS felt the need to change things up, they came to K4L to migrate responsibilities.”

With new organizers, expect some surprises, but count on the kind of camaraderie that always makes this summer Saturday so special. VIP tickets ($60) again get you exclusive entry for the first 90 minutes (starting at noon), unlimited tastings, access to select beers and a commemorative glass; general admission is $45, and designated drivers are $10. Plus food trucks and vendors and music by Mike Greer & Co. Cheers! (Rain or shine.)

Books in Motion

Beyond the Stacks and Shelves, Library Events Aboard

By TOM MEYER

Director,
Lansdale
Public Library

You've probably heard of the big events the library puts on or is involved in:

- Our huge celebration of diversity, The International Spring Festival, will be held at North Penn High School for the 29th year this year on Saturday, April 18 from 11 am to 5 pm.
- One of our big fundraisers, The Clean and Green Extravaganza, a shredding and electronics/metal recycling event, will be on Saturday, July 18 from 9 am to 1 pm.
- During Lansdale's Founders Day (this year on Aug. 29), we host the beer garden as another fundraiser.

But are you aware of all of the events the library has on a weekly or monthly basis, as well as the other smaller special events we hold each year? Last year the Lansdale Library hosted nearly 500 events. There are monthly Book Discussion groups, weekly Story Times and Game Nights, club meetings, guest speakers, art workshops and more always happening at your library.

These events are listed on our website calendar as well as in our monthly What's Happening at Lansdale Library newsletter. The newsletter is available on our website and in print at the library and various locations around Lansdale. You can sign up to receive an email of the newsletter on our website, and we post it on our social media channels. And be sure to follow the library on Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram.

Here are a few highlights of upcoming events:

- On May 7 at 7 pm, hear about the first decades of the history of the Philadelphia Phillies baseball team. The presentation is a light-hearted view from the 1880s through the 1970s of their colorful, although not so successful, past.

- On May 14 at 6 pm, Discover Your Inner Artist with local artist, Susie Camm, as she runs a paint-along instruction class in acrylics.

- Every second and fourth Tuesday is Game Night at the library from 7 pm to 9 pm. On the first and third Tuesdays, we take game night to The Underground from 6 pm to 10 pm. The Underground is located downstairs at 408 W Main St.

- This year, we started a Thursday afternoon Book Discussion Group which meets on the first Thursday of each month at 1 pm. The upcoming books we will be discussing are Memory Man by David Baldacci on April 2 and The Boy Who Said No: An Escape to Freedom by Patti Sheehy on May 7. We are reading Memory Man, the first in the Amos Decker series, in preparation for David Baldacci's visit on Friday, May 1 for Montgomery County's One Book One County Author Talk at Congregation Keneseth Israel in Elkins Park. Details and tickets can be obtained through www.montcolibraries.org.

Do you need help planning an event? The library has resources to help you. Three books on event planning are available at the library: The Business of Event Planning: Behind-the-Scenes Secrets of Successful Special Events by Judy Allen; The Complete Idiot's Guide to Meeting and Event Planning by Robin Craven; and Meeting & Event Planning for Dummies by Susan Friedmann.

In addition to the print resources, our electronic resources also have material on event planning.

And, if you need food to take to an event, check out our newest electronic resources, AtoZ Food America and AtoZ World Food. Thousands of recipes are available, along with food culture articles as well as historical and reference articles and an ingredients section.

Our website is the place to go to find out about our events, search for what we have available at the library, and to access the online resources available 24/7 to you with your library card in our E-Library. Find us at www.lansdalelibrary.org.

500 W. 5th Street

Community

Cannoneers was formed in 1946 with our mission to help local sports teams in the community. Since then, we have been actively involved with local youth and adult teams and other charities, proudly supporting our community ON and OFF the field for nearly 75 years!

FUNDRAISERS

We host and support many fundraisers for the community. Burgers, pancakes, spaghetti dinners, Beef & Beers ... to name a few. If you are looking for support please attend a monthly meeting!

Meetings

We hold our monthly meetings on the 1st Monday of each month @ 6:30. All are welcome to attend. This is a good forum to hear what we do as well as to speak, with a request for support or a desire to help.

Membership

We are a private social club. We have a full-service bar and kitchen serving lunch and dinner daily, and breakfast Saturdays & Sundays. To become a member you would need to be brought into the club with a member to be proposed & approved at our monthly meetings. We also offer catering ON and OFF site, and host many events, parties and fundraisers throughout the year.

LISTING INFORMATION

Discover Lansdale's 5th Annual Business Directory Is Coming!

More than 200 Lansdale businesses, services and organization already are listed. Are you? Go to www.discoverlansdale.org/2019-directory.html. If your business is there, check that your information is current, and send changes to info@discoverlansdale.org.

But if you're not listed, you're in danger of missing out on our big 2020 Business Directory edition, coming in May – unless you contact us. Fill out this form and mail it to us, email or phone. You'll be in the book, online and on our nifty interactive map (www.discoverlansdale.org/interactive-business-map.html).

Remember, a basic listing for businesses located in the borough is free. (Out-of-town businesses may be listed for a modest fee.) We also sell ads and expanded listings, at quite reasonable rates, with all funds supporting Discover Lansdale's publications and many events, our Freight House restoration project, and our cause: To make Lansdale a great place to live, work, play and shop. But hurry; deadline is March 30.
